

GLOBAL FOOD SECURITY IN A RISKIER WORLD: Diversification for Resilient Food and Nutrition Systems

4-5 September 2023 | Canberra, Australia and online

HOW YOU CAN HAVE A PRESENCE AT THE CRAWFORD FUND 2023 ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The Crawford Fund's Annual Conference is a highlight of Australia's agricultural development and food security calendar. For more than three decades we have drawn significant focus to issues worthy of global and national attention, and this September we continue that proud tradition.

This year's event, titled "Global Food Security in a Riskier Environment: Diversification for Resilient Food and Nutrition Systems" will be a chance to raise your profile and network as we focus on how to manage risk and build resilience in the face of the 3Cs - Covid, Climate Change and Conflict.

We will consider how farmers the world over, who are generally facing similar significant risks, can understand risks, and adapt and diversify their production systems to sustain production.

To this end, our key conference themes will examine on and off farm risks and solutions and key policy settings that will facilitate the development of resilient farming systems.

As Australia's key food security event, our annual conference has consistently attracted delegates from development, research, academia, the private sector, primary production, NGO and advocacy groups, and from decision and policy-making. This will be complemented by a virtual audience, including many from overseas.

We have again used our local and global networks to find thought-provoking expert speakers, and this year's program includes the following high-profile international and Australian specialists:

- Dr Cary Fowler, U.S. Special Envoy for Global Food Security
- Dr Eliane Ubalijoro, CEO, Center for International Forestry Research and World Agroforestry
- Emeritus Professor Kym Anderson AC, Crawford Fund Medallist
- Prof Wendy Umberger, CEO, Australian Centre for International Agricultural Research
- Dr Warren T K Lee, Senior Nutrition & Food Systems Officer, UN FAO
- Ben Fargher, Environmental Markets Lead, Cargill Asia Pacific

Being a sponsor and having a display at this year's event, will:
